

Washington, DC -- U.S. Representative Michael A. Arcuri (D-Utica) announced today that he will be visiting local companies and businesses – working directly with men and women on the job to learn from them first-hand about issues facing them.

“By joining local men and women on the job and visiting businesses across the district, Jobs Week gives me a valuable opportunity to hear from citizens about issues that are most important to them,” Arcuri said. “Last year during Jobs Week, I saw first-hand the challenges impacting local businesses and hard-working men and women, critical information I used in Congress as I urged my colleagues to support a bipartisan economic stimulus package and enact small business tax cuts. From working in a local steel mill to visiting a local pharmacy, the lessons I gather during this Jobs Week will help me continue to make informed decisions in Washington about issues that affect people in Upstate New York most.”
